

Why Gold will Continue to Beat Real Estate for years to come

From 1996 – 2000 smart investors made a mint trading blue chip and Internet stocks. From 2002 to 2006 real estate produced massive fortunes. So ask yourself, if the rich are always getting richer and the above investments have stalled or crashed altogether; where are the rich making their money today?

You only need to go back to 2006 to learn why stock guru Jim Cramer, Robert Kiyosaki of Rich Dad Poor Dad, Allen Greenspan Former Chairman of the US Federal Reserve and even Warren Buffett, the greatest investor of modern time all recommended taking large positions in gold.

What kind of gold?

No, not gold jewelry, not gold stocks but the same investment graded gold that the Superior Gold Group has sold since 2000.

And if you would have taken the experts' advice on January 1, 2006, your investment would have already produced a stellar return of 58% for bullion and a nearly 84.5% return for select numismatic coins, in less than 2 years.

Analysts are predicting that gold will reach $1,200 in 2008, extending its current six-year bull market that has returned an annualized 20 percent year-over-year return on investment since 2002.

Robert Kiyosaki said, "I still think gold will go to $1,500 an ounce. I'm betting against the U.S. dollar. Gold is a hedge against U.S. government mismanagement."
Washington Post- 2006

Jim Cramer said that, "Gold could exceed $1,000 if the Chinese stop buying our paper. Once the levee to the [US] Treasuries breaks, the easy high ground worth gaining will be gold. Any government-mandated inflation has to be bedrocked in gold."
New York Magazine - 2005

Gold investing is easier today than ever and if you are a serious investor you should know that the Best One Year Investment Returns in Past 25 Years:

- * RARE COINS: 198.8%

- * STOCKS: 31.1%

Even the most conservative analyst are predicting gold will hit $1100 an ounce in 2008.

These same analyst probably “conservatively” predicted that housing profits would return 7% in 2002-2005. These are the same analyst that predicted Google’s stock would peak at $120 or that Apple’s iPod would never displace the Sony CD-player.

And there are even analyst such as CLSA's chief analyst, Christopher Wood that predict gold could orbit to $3400 over the next 3 years.

Had you invested $10,000 in gold bullion in 1999, your initial investment would have grown to $28,007 by 12/17/07 – an amazing 180% percent increase.

That same $10,000 investment in stocks of the S & P index would have netted a meager $11,673. That’s a 16.73% increase. And unless you believe in those late night get rich quick artist, you can’t even use $10,000 for a down payment on an entry level home.

Nobody, it seems, is noticing what’s happening as gold moves higher in what promises to be a historic, monster bull market...

Gold is real money, a bargain and is under priced compared to everything else. And unlike other bull markets, gold’s bull runs usually spans 8-12 years.

The great gold bull market is now entering its stride. Last year was the best yet. The price of gold jumped 30%, as central banks printed money to stave off recession. This year, gold could soar well above $1,100. The most exciting phase of the gold market is ahead. Gold still is cheap.

If you were diligent enough to build your IRA, cash in on stocks and or real estate, the time to preserve your wealth is now. And if you missed the real estate or stock market investment opportunities, don’t miss the success that gold can bring you.

Asset Diversity is the key to economic success, especially when there is blood on the streets of the stock market, housing market and retirement accounts now 15, 25, and 35 years in the making. Not to mention there is no end in sight for the Iraq war, middle east tensions affecting oil production as well as the awakening bear that is the Chinese economy.

The demand for gold will continue to grow as it has since the days of the Egyptian Pharaohs. Only today it’s not simply historical powers demanding access to gold for their investors. China, India, the Middle East and South America are all now major players in the global demand for gold.
